Xafinity Claybrook appoints Operations Director

Xafinity Claybrook, the leading UK pensions software and services company, announces the appointment of Robin Morris-Weston as Operations Director. Robin's role brings together service delivery and product development to clients representing over ten million pension scheme members.

Robin's key focus will be to evolve and expand the delivery of a range of pensions software solutions and services designed to help overcome the challenges faced by today's pension schemes. This is coupled with the responsibility for taking forward Xafinity Claybrook's award winning pensions administration software Compendia, ensuring its development continues to meet the requirements of a diverse and growing client base. This is underpinned by a continuing programme of best practice management which enables industry service standards to be exceeded.

Robin has a proven track record of managing operations on in an enterprise environment, having worked for major Systems Integration and Consulting organisations including Atos, KPMG and Schlumberger.

Ron Barker, Managing Director of Xafinity Claybrook said:

"We are delighted to welcome Robin to Xafinity Claybrook. Robin's IT consultancy expertise will complement and strengthen the existing core pensions foundations of our highly experienced and well established management team. His approach feeds into Xafinity's broader aims for the seamless delivery of services to all of our clients."

"Robin's appointment underlines Xafinity Claybrook's ongoing commitment to ensuring the delivery of services to all our clients remains of the highest quality in line with the highly professional standards expected by customers today."
